April 26 and 27, 2019

Welcome to the Maryland School for the Deaf (MSD) and to the historic city of Frederick! We are honored to have student-athletes and coaches from the California School for the Deaf, Fremont; California School for the Deaf, Riverside; Indiana School for the Deaf; Model Secondary School for the Deaf (DC); and Texas School for the Deaf.

The Dummy Hoy XIX Baseball and Softball tournament promises to be an exciting one. Student-athletes will have an opportunity to showcase their school spirit, teamwork, individual athletic abilities, and sportsmanship.

I wish to sincerely thank top tournament sponsors Sorenson Communications, Kramer Wealth Managers, Gallaudet University, DJ – Nico DiMarco, Route 66 and MD Relay for their generosity and support of high school athletics.

This weekend is also a time for members of the MSD Community, Deaf Education Community, and Deaf and Hard of Hearing Community to celebrate the participating schools' long and successful tradition in educating Deaf and Hard of Hearing students!

Enjoy!

April 26 - 27, 2019

Greetings!

From all of us at the Maryland School for the Deaf, welcome to the 19th Annual Hoy Baseball and Softball Tournament!

On behalf of the Athletic Department and the Hoy XIX Core Committee, we would like to extend our warmest welcome to Maryland School for the Deaf and the City of Frederick. Home to the author of "The Star-Spangled Banner", the City of Frederick represents a true crossroads of American history as it is one of the oldest cities in Maryland, founded in 1748.

We are excited to host Hoy XIX for the third time in tournament history (2008, 2013, and 2019) and hope this will become a memorable event for you. Special thanks to our committee, as they have worked tirelessly in these last three months to prepare this exciting tournament to bring together student-athletes, coaches, and fans for a weekend of competition and camaraderie.

The Hoy XIX experience would not be possible without the generous contributions from our 25+ sponsors. Our warmest appreciation goes to the Maryland School for the Deaf Administration, MSD Athletic Booster Club, Hoy XIX Core Committee members, volunteers, and participants for supporting our student-athletes and all of our endeavors.

For the first time in this annual tournament, we are very proud to announce that this tournament will consist of all Deaf umpires for this weekend's baseball and softball games. To commemorate this inaugural event, we will be passing out Hoy pins.

If you need help or assistance at any time this weekend, please reach out to any committee member wearing orange shirts.

Best wishes for an enjoyable tournament. Have a great time, play hard, and may the best team win!

Now let's PLAY BALL.

A CAPSULE BIOGRAPHY ON WILLIAM “DUMMY” HOY

William Ellsworth “Dummy” Hoy (1862-1961) was the first deaf player to have a long career in the major leagues. He was born in Houcktown, northern Ohio, graduated from Ohio School for the Deaf, began his professional career in 1886, played for several major-league teams from 1888 to 1902, and died in Cincinnati in 1961 at the age of 99 years and 5 months. He enjoyed a long and successful career in baseball: 18 seasons on professional teams, including 5 with the Cincinnati Red Stockings. He was one of the few players to have played in 4 of the 5 recognized major leagues: The National League, the short-lived Players’ League, the original American Association, and the American League.

Hoy was a small man, 5’4” or 5’5” tall, weighing 145-155 pounds, probably the shortest major-league outfielder in history. What he lacked in heft, he made up for in cunning and swiftness. He was a celebrated “flyhawk,” a great centerfielder, on a par with Joe DiMaggio, Willie Mays, and Tris Speaker.

During his rookie year in the majors (1888), Hoy led the National League with 82 stolen bases, a record that tops those of some of the most celebrated Hall of Famers. (Ty Cobb stole no bases during his rookie year, Babe Ruth 10.) His career total: 597 to 607 stolen bases (depending on which account you read).

Hoy had a respectable .288 (.292 according to some counts) lifetime batting average, and 2,054 hits. He once hit .357. He had 1,004 walks, and played in 1,798 major-league games. As baseball historian Nicholas Dawidoff has noted: “He was always among the league leaders in assists, totaling 318 in his 14 years, including an astounding 45 in 1900 . . . [on the] Chicago White Stockings”. Over the course of 137 games Hoy, who was then 38, had 337 putouts and a .977 fielding average to go along with his 45 assists. It was the only time an outfielder has ever led the majors in all three categories.”

An ill-fated fly ball batted by Hoy in 1894 was responsible for the league-wide ban on uniform breast pockets—a ban still in effect.

Hoy’s own proudest achievement was throwing out three baserunners at home plate in one game—an unprecedented and seldom-equalled feat.

There are numerous accounts of Hoy’s exploits, and many of these can be verified from contemporary newspaper accounts. One popular story from his Oshkosh days tells how Hoy chased and caught a fly ball while balancing on the shaft of a buggy parked inside the stadium. Some versions of the tale have Hoy leaping astride the horse to catch the ball!

Hoy was gentlemanly and polite, well-liked by his teammates, and never (or seldom) got thrown out of a game for misconduct—quite a feat in those unruly days! His honesty was legendary. During one game, in darkening dusk, the umpire called the batter out for catching a ball on the fly, which sparked a commotion. He asked Hoy, who was playing center field, if the ball had been caught on the fly or on the bounce. Hoy told him it had been caught “on the bounce.” The umpire called the batter safe. Hoy’s teammates were furious. Hoy was satisfied that he had told the truth.

Hoy taught his teammates how to communicate in sign language—very useful on the field. The fans loved him. When he made a spectacular play, fans stood in the bleachers and wildly waved their arms and hats—an early form of “Deaf applause.”

Most importantly, Hoy played a pioneering role in the creation of the hand signals still used today in baseball games throughout the world. When he began his professional career in Oshkosh, all umpires’ calls were shouted. While at bat, Hoy had to ask his coach if a ball or strike had been called. The opposing pitcher took advantage of Hoy’s distraction, quick-pitching him—sending out the next pitch before he was ready. (He batted only .219 during his first season.) Around 1887, according to this story, Hoy wrote out a request to the third-base coach, asking him to raise his left arm to indicate a ball, his right arm for a strike. Hoy could follow the hand signals after each pitch, and be ready for the next. And the umpires and other players found these signals so useful that they became standard practice—they’re still used everywhere. Hoy adapted the “out” and “safe” signals from ASL.

Thus, the intricate system of baseball hand signals—the umpire’s signals, manager’s call signals to batters, and the outfielders’ call signals now used in all levels of baseball and softball, can be traced to him and other early players like Edward Joseph “Dummy” Dundon and Luther Haden “Dummy” Taylor.

Umpire Bill Klem’s plaque in the Hall of Fame credits him with inventing hand signals (which he is supposed to have done in 1905). But old newspaper clippings as far back as 1888 contain explicit references to Hoy and his hand signals—well before Klem began his umpiring career.

Ever since the Hoy Committee began actively campaigning for his induction, they have brought Hoy’s case to the attention of the Veterans Committee of the National Baseball Hall of Fame (which inducts players from past eras). Thanks to their persistence in increasing Hoy’s visibility, his name has been included on the annual ballots several times. But year after year, Hoy has been bypassed in favor of players with less impressive careers. The campaign continues.

Without “Dummy” Hoy, baseball just wouldn’t be the same.

Hoy deserves to be recognized for his achievements—not hearsay, not myth, not folklore, not legend, but the plain facts.

If you choose Sorenson as your default provider, you can port your existing 10-digit number to Sorenson from another provider or Sorenson can provide you with one for the geographic area where you live or work. If you later change your default provider, you can port your number to that provider. When selecting Sorenson, you must provide to Sorenson the physical address (i.e., the Registered Location) from which you are placing the call, so that Sorenson can properly route any 911 calls you may make. If you move or change your location, you must notify Sorenson immediately. You can update your Registered Location from your Sorenson videophone by calling 800-659-4810 or by visiting www.svrs.com/moving. Sorenson will confirm receipt of your Registered Location information. Emergency calls made via internet-based TRS may not function the same as traditional E911 service. For example, you may not be able to dial 911 if there is an internet-service failure or if you lose electrical power, and your 911 call may not be routed correctly if you have not updated your Registered Location. For more information on the process of obtaining 10-digit numbers and the limitations and risks associated with using Sorenson's VRS to place a 911 call, please visit Sorenson's website: www.sorenson.com/disclaimer. For more information on toll-free numbering, please visit www.svrs.com/tollfree.
